

PPA SPECIAL SEMINAR: DOI CLIMATE POLICIES

2024-01-16, 12:15-1:15pm ET, Microsoft Teams Live

Speakers

- Whitney Boone, Coordination Program for Resilience and Environment (DOI Office of Policy Analysis)
- Ryan Boyles, Climate Science Applications Coordination Team Advisor (U.S. Geological Survey)
- Louis Brueggeman, Adaptive Management Working Group Advisor (DOI Office of Environmental Policy and Compliance)
- Nicole Herman-Mercer, Indigenous Knowledges Coordination Committee Advisor (U.S. Geological Survey)
- Noah Van Gilder, Climate Training Working Group Advisor (DOI Office of Policy Analysis)
- Anna Wearn, Landscape-Level Working Group Advisor (DOI Office of Policy Analysis)
- Tamara Wilson, Nature-based Solutions Working Group Advisor (DOI Office of Policy Analysis)

When

Tuesday, 16 January 2024, 12:15 – 1:15pm Eastern

Where

Microsoft Teams Live (click to connect)

Accessibility

Closed captioning is available; subtitles in English and Spanish will be available.

Summary

The Department of the Interior is taking action to strengthen our ability to meet our mission in the face of a changing climate. In 2023, the Department of the Interior released six climate policies in the form of Department Manual chapters covering climate change, applying climate change science, adaptive management, and landscape-level management, as well as nature-based solutions and Indigenous Knowledge. These policies direct bureaus and offices to factor the climate crisis into our operations and reflect the Department's commitment to leveraging science, Indigenous Knowledge and landscape-scale management as foundational components of Departmental decision-making. This special seminar will provide an overview of the six recently released climate Departmental Manual chapters and offer an opportunity to hear from key members of the Coordination Program for Resilience and Environment (CPRE) and its constituent working groups—a team of experts now working across the Department to develop tools, networks, guidance, and training materials to support the implementation of these policies.

For more information

For more information on the Seminar, please contact the Office of Policy Analysis, ppa@ios.doi.gov. For more information about the Coordination Program for Resilience and Environment, please visit <https://doimspp.sharepoint.com/sites/os-cpre>.