Public and Tribal Comment on Non-Agenda items

Colleen Stickman, Nulato, expressed concern over trespass issues on private property around Nulato. Ms. Stickman noted that proper signage had been in place to notify of private property that was ignored, and she felt there was a lack of concern by local public safety officers when the community made their concerns known.

Fred Huntington, Galena, expressed concern over what will happen when hunting is opened on the Wood Bison herd in the Grayling, Anvik, Shageluk, Holy Cross Subregion (GASH), as the herd resides mostly on Doyon land, and he is concerned with who will be tasked with enforcement when that time comes.

Ross Martin, Fairbanks, introduced himself as being a PhD student at the Yale School of the Environment. He informed the Council he was looking into trying to find a way to bridge the gap between what is being researched and what local priorities are in terms of subsistence issues in his studies. Mr. Martin stated that he is looking forward to reviewing past Council transcripts to shed some light on local priorities and learn about how subsistence issues have evolved over time, which are being solved, which remain problems, and how ecological circumstances are changing.

Chief Charlie Green, Loudon, welcomed the Council to the community and gave a brief update on the Village of Loudon. He reported that Loudon had build a fishwheel and were running it this summer, mostly for whitefish but they were able to give Chum Salmon to a few elders, and that moose season was successful this fall for most people. Chief Green noted that Loudon put up a lot of “No Trespassing” signs that helped inform nonlocal hunters where private land was which has helped a lot. He also noted that the Wildlife Trooper that is stationed in Galena has been great to work with, helping to inform people about the antler destruction requirement instead of just ticketing everyone he could as there hasn’t been one stationed in Galena for a while and some people had forgotten the regulations.

Review and Approve Previous Meeting Minutes:

- Motion by Member Pelkola, seconded by Member Kriska, to approve the winter 2024 meeting minutes with the following correction. The motion passed unanimously.

Update Member Gervais’ report to say that he “disagrees with the Solicitor’s interpretation on jurisdictional issues, on whether subsistence users under ANILCA or Alaska Natives under ANCSA can make claims against harvesting of salmon in commercial fisheries, while subsistence resources and escapement goals are not being met”.

- Motion by Member Honea, seconded by Member Walker, to approve the All-Council winter 2024 meeting minutes. The motion passed unanimously.
- Motion by Member Walker, seconded by Member Pelkola, to approve the minutes from the Quadrilateral Council Meeting regarding the Western Arctic Caribou Herd. The motion passed unanimously.

Council Member and Chair Reports:

Tim Gervais of Ruby informed the Council that the past week the Gulf of Alaska trawl fleet was closed due to exceeding the quota for both Chinook and Chum salmon, but not catching even 50% of the pollock allocated to the fishery, which is a good representation of how much biomass these trawling boats can quickly catch. He expressed concern over potential regulatory changes the North Pacific Fishery Management Council may enact to circumvent this closure moving forward, and is interested to see what will happen with the genetic data that was required to be collected from each of the salmon caught. Member Gervais also expressed concern over the downward trend of salmon weighs in many commercial fisheries across the state, and the lack of genetic knowledge when it comes to intercept and high seas fisheries. He stated he was leery of the disruption that OSM and Subsistence Regional Advisory Councils will face in the move out of the FWS. Member Gervais finalized his report by noting that the applications were just recently due for the 2020–2021 Statewide Salmon Disaster Relief funds, and that while the money that will be distributed will provide relief, all of the agencies involved in this process need to understand that the payouts do not replace the value of having a functioning multi specie salmon runs, and that the subsistence process is more than just the number of fish caught.

Jenny Pelkola of Galena reported that she had a busy summer, although it busy with family activities and she was not busy catching salmon as that was closed on the Yukon this summer. She noted that the community was thankful that they were getting salmon from Bristol Bay, but it was a different kind of salmon that couldn't be prepared in the same ways, and she is hopeful that she will be able to just have a taste of Chinook Salmon just one more time during her lifetime. Member Pelkola noted that there was a lot of moose tracks around town, but that her and her husband were not able to get one this year. Member Pelkola finalized her report by expressing concern that Council members were still not getting honorarium in the face of the issues that the Council is having with getting and retaining members.

Tommy Kriska of Nulato reported that he is concerned with the lack of subsistence fishing opportunity for the communities on the Yukon again this summer, and that he is worried that that the monetary gain of commercial fishermen is considered more important than subsistence users in Alaska. He also expressed concern that people will become complacent with receiving salmon as handouts instead of fishing themselves and drew parallels to the results of the decimation of the bison on the Great Plains and the ongoing salmon population crash in the Yukon and Kuskokwim rivers. Member Kriska reported that nonlocal hunters have been using traditional hunting grounds near Nulato, and they are leaving items and trash behind – he noted that the hunters may believe they are stashing items for next season or leaving behind useful items they believe will be picked up by someone else, but this is still considered littering. He reported that there was a lack of enforcement and instances of nonlocal hunters not taking requests to vacate private property seriously, and that an actual human presence from Doyon and Gan'A Yoo on Corporation lands would work far better than 'private property' signs. Member Krista finalized his report saying that more young people from tribes were going to college, the tribes weren't going anywhere so he believes one day things will change.

Donald Honea, Jr. of Ruby reported that he was concerned over the discrepancies between the preseason salmon numbers for the Yukon summer Chum run and what the season looked like. He recalled that for the years preceding the current salmon population crash, that everyone assumed that there would always be summer and fall Chum [Salmon] even if there were no kings [Chinook Salmon]. Member Honea expressed concern over the lack of input on the Council from the mid and upper Kuskokwim with the resignation of Member Whitworth. He noted that the moose population around Ruby seemed to be good, especially around the Novi [Nowitna River], and many community members were able to harvest a moose especially in the later part of the season. He finalized his report by saying that more education effort should be made to ensure people knew that native allotments and other tribal lands were considered private property.

Robert Walker of Anvik reported that he has been working with other tribes with assistance from TCC in the GASH to draft a resolution seeking the creation of a controlled use area (CUA) in Unit 21A to exclude hunting for moose with aircraft in a portion of Unit 21A for submission to the Alaska Board of Game (BOG), and he is hopeful that he can bring that forward at the next Council meeting. He relayed to the Council that there were some subsistence fishing openers this summer, for which he was grateful as people were able to put up a few jars of salmon for the winter and that TCC had helped by sending [Sockeye] Salmon to the villages, but that it is a really dry fish and it was hard to figure out how to preserve and prepare it. Member Walker noted that he attended and testified at the Alaska Board of Fisheries (BOF) on his support of a proposal that sought to modify the Area M commercial fishery to hopefully allow more western salmon stocks back to their natal rivers, but that it ultimately failed. He expressed concern over the status of the experimental herd of wood bison in the GASH, as there is no set plan to give any subsistence priority to the tribes in the region, and that he does not believe that what the tribes and ADF&G agreed to prior to the wood bison release is being adhered to.

Darrell Vent, Sr. of Huslia reported that he was frustrated that subsistence does not seem to be an actual priority, and that rural people are struggling with meeting their subsistence needs. He noted that the definition of what is and who practices subsistence is all jumbled up between the State and Federal governments, and that it is concerning to see the expensive boats coming down the river from Fairbanks and other large cities practicing ‘subsistence’ while the people that live in that area are struggling. He noted that first the caribou went, then the salmon, and now it looks like the moose are not far behind, that it is impossible to harvest or preserve what isn’t there anymore. Member Vent stated that one can see the changes when attending potlatches as most of the food that is brought is store bought and no longer Native food. Member Vent finalized his report by expressed concern that the CUA around Huslia is doing more harm than good by bringing in more people on boats, hunters that never seem to have the amount of meat in the boat to match the antlers they are displaying once they go through the check station.

Jack Reakoff of Wiseman reported that he was concerned that actions taken by the BOG showed no consideration to any of the Fish and Game Advisory Committee’s comments during their March 2024 Interior Region meeting, which he stated is an ongoing issue with both the BOG and the BOF. He expressed concern over actions taken by the BOG concerning non-resident harvest limits and resident season dates of caribou in the Central Arctic Caribou Herd range. Chair Reakoff also gave a brief explanation of the regional Subsistence Resource Commissions (SRC), as he sits as the vice chair of the GAAR SRC, and activities that the GARR SRC has recently been engaged with. He relayed that he had taken part in a spring conference call on the transference of the OSM out of the FWS into the DOI PMB, and that he still had concerns over what will happen when administrations change. Chair Reakoff informed the Council he had also taken part in the Priority Information Needs for fisheries teleconference for the Yukon this summer, as well as in communication with the BLM over concern in lifting the PL51-50, which he noted this Council has registered its opposition of. Chairman Reakoff finalized his report by informing the Council on animal populations and movement in the subregion where he resides.

Action Items

Fisheries Proposals and Closure Reviews

Regional

FP25-16: Kanuti River and Bonanza Creek Gear Types and Harvest Limits

The Council supports FP25-16. Poor salmon returns on the Yukon River have shifted effort to local, non-salmon species. This proposal will benefit subsistence users without negatively impacting grayling populations.

- Motion by Member Walker, seconded by Member Pelkola, to support fisheries proposal FP25-16 as written. The motion passed unanimously.

Yukon Kuskokwim Delta Region

FP25-15: Kuskokwim River Set Gillnet Restrictions to Align with State

The Council opposes FP25-15. The Council felt that the proposed distance between set nets is very close, and that while this distance would work in some limited instances and topographies, it is not a regulation that the Council feels should be drainage wide. The Council noted that as this fishery is typically conducted under federal management and that having this regulation in place in areas that have a higher population would be detrimental to subsistence and noted that the Yukon Kuskokwim Delta Regional Advisory Council was also in opposition to this proposal.

- Motion by Member Walker, seconded by Member Pelkola, to support fisheries proposal FP25-15 as written. The motion failed unanimously.

Eastern Interior Region

FP25-17: Delta River Add Rod and Reel with Limits Matching State

The Council took no action on FP25-17 and requested that the Federal Subsistence Board (Board) defer to the recommendation of the Eastern Interior Council.

FCR23-05: Delta River All Fish deferred

The Council took no action on FCR23-05 and requested that the Board defer to the recommendation of the Eastern Interior Council.

FCR25-02: Nome Creek Arctic Grayling

The Council took no action on FCR25-02 and requested that the Board defer to the recommendation of the Eastern Interior Council.

2026 Fisheries Resource Monitoring Program and Priority Information Needs (PINs) development

Cory Graham, OSM Fisheries Biologist, and Liz Williams, OSM Cultural Anthropologist, presented the draft lists of PINs for the Kuskokwim Area and Yukon Area to the Council. The Council was informed that the Yukon Kuskokwim Delta Subsistence Regional Advisory Council (YKDRAC) made a slight amendment to the Kuskokwim Area list to add Sockeye Salmon and other nonsalmon fish species to some of the PINs.

- Motion by Member Pelkola, seconded by Member Kriska, to approve the Yukon PINs. The motion passed unanimously.
- Motion by Member Pelkola, seconded by Member Walker, to approve the Kuskokwim PINs as amended by the YKDRAC. The motion passed unanimously.

3. Request more information be provided to the Council on salmon genetic work in the Gulf of Alaska, the Bering Sea, and state managed intercept fisheries such as Area M.
4. Request that the Board assist in whatever means available to address the Council's concerns over the escalating numbers of hunters going into Unit 21A and observed poor salvage, such as allocating funds to increase federal enforcement into this Unit during the fall moose season.
5. Continued concern that subsistence users are bearing the brunt of salmon conservation.
6. Continued concern over the lack of data available on Yukon and Kuskokwim drainage non salmon populations due to the continued subsistence reliance on them.
7. Continued efforts to finalize the Council's Sheep Harvest Management Guidelines.
8. Concern over how recent BOG regulatory actions on caribou in Unit 26A will negatively impact subsistence users.

Closing Comments

Member Honea would have liked to have given a closing comment, but he got disconnected and was unable to do so.

Member Pelkola expressed her thanks for the meeting and noted that it is very important for members to attend the meeting in person as it makes the meeting run a lot smoother, and that she would like to foster having more interaction between the Councils. She noted her concern over the reports of wanton waste that members and the public commented on.

Member Kriska agreed that there was great benefit to meet with other Councils, and that he does see many individual members outside of formal Council meetings, and that the issue of wanton waste was concerning. He also echoed the sentiment that Council members should make effort to attend meetings in person, that he is a busy person but the topics the Council discusses are very important and connects with all of the Council members other efforts such as Fish and Game Advisory Committees and fish commissions, and noted again his frustration that things didn't seem to be getting better for subsistence users.

Member Walker expressed his thanks towards TCC attending in person, and that he was pleased to see that government-to-government consultations are happening. He expressed concern over the lack of an honorarium for Council members, noting that costs in the village are high, and members are not intending to get rich off the Federal government for receiving compensation for their time, and that this was an ongoing concern that was never fixed the last time he was on the Council. He finalized his comments by noting that the consequences are not stiff enough for those individuals that get trespassing during hunting season, and that is even if they get caught.

Member Gervais expressed his thanks for the community of Galena for hosting the meeting and thanked the Council members and Chair for contributing their knowledge and time, and the Chair for managing and running a good meeting. He noted that the time spent here is important.

Chair Reakoff expressed his appreciation for the Council members that attended the meeting and noted that there were a lot of technological issues with those participating on the phone that resulted in lost time during the meeting. He noted that it is imperative that the Councils get the correct technology to be able to conduct these meetings, and there are different capabilities out there that need to be utilized. He stated he was very pleased by the public attendance and comments received at this meeting. Chair Reakoff conveyed his appreciation for all the efforts of the KRITFC and YRDFA, and that he is seeing good forward movement with the Federal subsistence programs, refuges, and parks on getting the requested information and data that the Councils are asking for. Chairman Reakoff closed out the meeting thanking those in attendance for attending the entire meeting as there are many important issues on the horizon.
